

I am a constant cell-phone user for my business. I am totally against cell phone use on air-carriers. I feel it would be rude and totally out of hand. The passengers need to pay attention to safety instructions by the crew. Other people should be able to work or sleep with some degree of privacy and don't need 300 people talking on their phones. Our society is not that demanding that we cannot wait to make calls until we are on the ground.

Thank You
